Coats and Suits are selling freely and we attribute this pleasing state of affairs to our large stock of desirable styles so moderately priced—to the fact that all garments of the better sort are bought from houses that do not sell other stores in this vicinity (exclusive style for you)—and a host of other reasons that you will be able to see for yourself.

The 60-foot flagstaff opposite the city building in the square has shown a tendency to bend to the will of every heavy wind that passes this way and to prevent the big mast from toppling over, a hawser rope has been attached to a tree just south of the pole. During the heavy wind of last week, the staff was observed to sway dangerously toward the south and the use of the hawser is precautionary measures pending other steps which are to be taken to preserve the rigidity of the pole.

Violations of the ordinance recently passed prohibiting the use of "cut-out," in the operation of automobiles around the city have been reported in numbers to the authorities at city hall and the impression is gained that motorists are not taking the new restriction seriously. It is said that violations of the "cut-out" regulation are not confined to any one section of the city, although the practice is more noticeable on Washington street, where autoists open their "cut-out" at a point nearly opposite the hospital and keep it open the length of the street. The ordinance provides an ample penalty for violations and it is promised that an example will be made of the offenders if the practice is not stopped.

At the invitation of the Burlington city officials, representatives of the fire and police department and the city council were in Burlington to-day to witness the parade and athletic competitions incident to the annual inspection of the Queen city's firemen and police. Among those who made the trip by automobile to-day were Alderman Edwin Keast, Alderman A. M. Rossi, Chief of Police Samuel Sinclair, Alderman A. E. Bruce, Chief C. R. Gladding and E. M. Tobin, first assistant engineer. Nearly all of the local visitors planned to return to Barre late this afternoon, although Chief Gladding expected to remain.—The opening session of the Vermont State Firemen's association this evening.

If negotiations started late last week are completed, the University of Vermont freshmen will play the Goddard seminary football eleven on the seminary campus Saturday afternoon. The freshmen are known to have a strong team and it is not unlikely that the seminary's gridiron representatives will meet their equals, after having defeated easily teams from the Vermont agricultural school at Randolph and the cavalrymen from Fort Ethan Allen. There are indications that the calendar at the week end will be crowded with football, as Spaulding is booked to meet Burlington high school at the Lincoln school campus. The North Barre Red Sox expect to play Goddard Thursday afternoon.

Roy C. Bugbee of Richardson street, who recently submitted to an operation, has so far recovered his health as to be able to leave the City hospital, where he has been confined for the past two weeks. Mr. Bugbee expects to resume his duties at the Barre postoffice to-morrow.

War posters in a riot of color and with a variety of patriotic catchwords inscribed thereon are exhibited in the Times office through the courtesy of Rev. John Irons, pastor of the Williamstown Congregational church. Much has been written of the war posters which Great Britain has used to forward the work of recruiting for the great war across the channel and to those who are following the progress of the struggle overseas an inspection of the posters will prove interesting. It is said that the war posters have done much to postpone if not to avert the necessity of conscription in Great Britain and Ireland. Rev. Mr. Irons' collection includes practically every design that has been used since the war began.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Mrs. William McFarland of Washington street left this morning for a visit in Boston and vicinity.

Although no provisions were previously made for any work on the hall which surmounts the flagstaff, the globe is to have its share of the gold leaf. If the weather is propitious, the work at the fire station will be started this week.
